

Survivor Voices of Human Trafficking
Biography
Jazmyn Brown

Jazmyn Brown is the founder and CEO of Operation Giveback, a social purpose corporation that provides educational resources to nonprofits. It also works with marginalized populations in the Bay Area to connect them with NGOs that work to provide food, clothing, shelter and other basic needs. A survivor of sex trafficking, and a former foster youth, her lived experience as a survivor give her insight in the experiences, factors, and vulnerabilities that contribute to the victims of trafficking and exploitation. She is currently pursuing a master's degree in Community Development at the Carsey School of Public Policy at the University of New Hampshire.
